Delhi likely to get Sputnik V after June 20, says Kejriwal

The chief minister said there are around 650 cases of the black fungus in Delhi government hospitals but there is a shortage of drugs used to treat the disease.

"There are 300 cases of black fungus in central government hospitals and around 650 in Delhi government hospitals. However, the supply of injections is low. We had received 1,000 injections the day before yesterday, but did not receive any injections yesterday. It takes 3-4 injections per person per day," he said.

Kejriwal said Delhi is likely to get a consignment of the Sputnik V vaccine that will be imported by the firm concerned after June 20.

"Sputnik will probably enter vaccine after June 20. They will start the vaccine production from the month of August. They are importing the vaccines right now, and they will add a section of their import vaccine in the Delhi government," he said.

The Drugs Controller General of India (DCGI) has granted emergency use of Sputnik V with certain conditions. Dr Reddy's Laboratories will import the vaccine to the country.

Twitter has to comply with new IT rules: HC

Acharya, in his plea, said that the new IT Rules took effect from February 23 and the Centre had given three months to every social media intermediary, including Twitter, to comply with them.

He contended that the three-month period got over on May 23, but no resident grievance officer was appointed by Twitter to deal with complaints regarding tweets on its platform.

The petition has sought a direction to Twitter to appoint a resident grievance officer. Further, he has also sought a direction to the Centre to ensure that the IT rules are complied with.

In major policy shift, Chinese couples can now have third child

In a poll on Xinhua's Weibo account asking 'How ready are the three-child policy, about 29,000 of 31,000 respondents said they would "never think of it" while the remainder chose among the options: "The ready and very eager to do so", "It's on my agenda", or "I'm hesitating and there's lot to consider". The poll was later removed. "I am willing to have three children if you give me 5 million yuan ($783,630)," one user posted.

Share prices in birth- and fertility-related companies surged.

Early this month, a survey by a decade census showed that the population grew at its slowest rate during the last decade since the 1990s, to 1.41 billion, fueling concern that China would grow old before it gets wealthy as well as criticism that it had waited too long to address declining births.

"This is without a doubt a step in the right direction, but still it's a bit timid," Shuang Ding, chief economist at Stan- dard Chartered in Hong Kong, told Reuters.

"A fully liberalised birth policy should have been implemented at least five years ago, but it's now late now, although it's better late than never," he said.

China's politburo also said on Monday that it would phase in delays in retirement ages, but did not provide any details.

Fines of 1,000,000 yuan ($150,440) were being imposed on people for having a third child as of late last year, according to a government notice in the city of Wuhan.

Facing a population explosion, in 1979 China implemented its one-child policy, which succeeded in curbing population growth but also led to forced sterilisations and sex-selective abortions that exacerbated a gender imbalance as many parents preferred male children.

A study published earlier this year by academics from Hangzhou University found that the two-child policy encouraged wealthier couples who already had a child and were "less sensitive to child-rearing costs" while driving up the costs of child care and education and discouraging first-time parents. — REUTERS
